Poem: The Creation of Sir Walter Raleigh by James Russell Lowell. Begins "And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days." Ends "Then, be for we are aware!" Also, for a ration of "perfect days" June is the month of graduates, of vacations, of memories, radiant memories. I trust it will be a month for you.

Our pastor, like many other folks, has a splendid showing of bloom. I hesitate to mention names, but Bro. Lee has added merits special praise and even modest ones like Darkleaf have learned to keep a daily fresh supply of roses. I like'em red, white, Cliff Flinkett was very fond of her blue roses. Ah me, I see many magnolias there although mine linger's a most prominent category. Days are taking over for delphiniums.

There is an Appomattox lad attending Memorial Exercises in Lynchburg today. Others our friend, Dr. Wilbur Collins was the speaker. The group from Lynchburg preceded by attending the Lynchburg Memorial Day program today afternoon, Dr. Collins had a brilliant and fruitful career as minister, pastor, teacher and I am pleased, to call him friend. Many years ago he was pastor of Clifton Presbyterian and then at Liberty before coming to Appomattox, and is now with the Amherst Baptist Church.

Our high school football team, after months of training, lost to Amherst ACHS opens Sept. 10 with Altavista, goes to Brookneal Sept. 11 and has a big game with Central, Oct. 23 against formidable Amherst. I'd guess that one of the most rugged schedules our team has ever had. Other games include Dan River, Gretna, Tunstall, Staunton River, Campbell and Altavista.

Caught in the act of working in the garden hoe for a few days ago when I arrived, I had been trying to discourage weeds and grass, only to be discouraged by the endless effort. Among guests were Mrs. Robertson of our fair city, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, N. C. Heavyweights, they had heard that I had some old-fashioned violets and they had in a generous supply, about 150 miles from East-ville. The violets were from Mr. and Mrs. Robertson's where to plant them for arthritis eases. She also added me another jar of delicious pear preserves, which the former Rachel Hall is well known here as one of Brightleaf's cooks.

Memory of one of Appomattox's most distinguished citizens, Hon. Burke Steele was honored by dedication of the Hospital building in Lynchburg named in remembrance of his service as member and Chairman of the State Board, The B. F. Burke Memorial Building. In addition to being president of the Board, Burke Steele had a long career in public service in the upbuilding of the hospital program. Inscription on the plaque in memory of Burke was unveiled by Mrs. Peter Copes, of the Board, who succeeded him as chairman of the Hospital Board . I do not know if Mrs. Copes, but did she was husband, who was a former Legislator.

Next time, If you hit a home run you can take your time going around the bases, but if you try to run and run fast you'll visit and am stranded on second base, hoping you will be home next week by the score on what goes on in Appomattox: the fickle cheek of nature.

Abbitt Addresses Jaycees

Representative Watkins M. Abbitt (D-Va.) said here Thursday night that he feels Congress should "seriously evaluate" the administration's recommendation that the federal debt ceiling be increased by 18 billion dollars.

In a speech to the Appomattox Jaycees, the Congressman said he finds it difficult "to understand why the administration feels it is necessary to request an increase of this magnitude when officials of the Bureau of the Budget and the Department of the Treasury are still saying that they are trying to operate under a balanced budget."

Abbitt pointed out that estimates made at the beginning of the year indicated that there would be a slight surplus whereas now estimates are that there will be a deficit of approximately the same amount.

The Congressman pointed out that under the present budget operation, the government includes all of its income in a unified accounting which includes many billions of dollars in trust funds such as Social Security, Civil Service retirement, and highway funds. "This system -- which I opposed in the beginning -- gives the government far too much leeway in manipulating its accounts and can frequently be pictured in any way that the Bureau of the Budget decides is expedient at the time", he asserted.

He said he is opposed to wage and price controls but is afraid that the government "by action in some instances and lack of action in others, is moving toward a set of conditions where such controls may eventually be proposed."

"We are still spending money we do not have for things we do not need and I do not see how that such practices can continue indefinitely without causing great harm to our fiscal structure", Abbitt said.

Squad "Stands By" During Holiday

Fortunately for everyone concerned, there WAS time for coffee drinking at Rescue Squad headquarters over the week end at Squadmen and women stayed at headquarters on "stand-by" for possible emergencies. Two calls Sunday and one call Saturday made for relatively quiet holiday week end for (from left): Richard Bartelt, James Carter, president Doug Seamster, Opal Paulette, Leota Vaughan, Pete Doss, Capt. Jack Williams, and Andy Scruggs plus the other members. Two other women serve on active duty with the Rescue Squad: Mrs. Nellie Paulette and Mrs. Nina Beasley with Mrs. Jacob Lewis and Mrs. Thelma Conner serving on a "stand-by" basis. Four crews serve the county, one each week, plus a roster of day-time volunteers. Twenty-nine adults are completing an advanced first aid course taught weekly at the Squad building.
